

PHOTOGRAPHY TERMS & USAGE

Alcorn State University (ASU) owns the copyright to all images created. Any reproduction rights remain with Alcorn State University, and permission to use these images must be secured prior to publication or any other use. This is true in all cases unless specific arrangements are made in advance of the reproduction of the images. Clients are not allowed to distribute, sell, or share any images produced by Alcorn State University with any other departments, programs, or organizations.

Clients who agree to the basis license or usage of an image(s) from Alcorn State University's archive have one-time reproduction rights and must obtain permission for subsequent use of the image(s).

COPYRIGHT

Alcorn State University retains the use, copyright, and licensing to all ASU images. You may not re-use, sell, distribute, copy, or manipulate any image(s) created by Alcorn State University. All rights for reproduction of any image remain with the University and any permission to use these images must be obtained prior to publication or any other use.

USAGE

All images from Alcorn State University are approved images for use and distribution by Alcorn State University staff, faculty, students, alumni, and friends for ASU purposes only. These images must be requested for use in publications, Web sites, and other ASU-related communications. All photos must be properly captioned and credited in publications, where appropriate. You may not distribute, sell, or share any images produced by Alcorn State University without prior consent.
