With API’s virtual and on-site internships, you will develop skills that employers value. Build your resume and stand out from your peers, improve your odds of being hired faster, and set yourself up for a higher starting salary!

“I cannot say enough good things about API. Every single aspect of my program went smoothly. From my application process, to my arrival, to my departure, everything was handled for me and that was so amazing. My on-site director was beyond helpful with ANYTHING I asked for help with and my program director in the US was the exact same! Thank you, API, for an extraordinary experience!”

API prides itself on including as much as possible in our program fees to make sure that you have a full and rewarding experience abroad. Here’s a quick list of the most common pieces that API programs include:

- Pre-departure advising from program experts
- Tuition and transcripts
- Housing
- Excursions/Daytrips
- Medical Insurance
- Friendly, local API staff in every destination
- ... And more!
Have you applied for or renewed your passport yet?

To travel internationally, you need a valid passport. If you have a passport already, check the expiration date. Some countries require your passport to be valid for 6 months after your departure date!

You may also need a visa, depending upon your location. Get started here!

Check out this video from API's mascot, Trav El for more information or visit our passport resources.

Who is API?

Academic Programs International (API) is an approved affiliate provider that works closely with U.S. institutions and universities abroad. API was founded in 1997 and is dedicated to providing high-quality, affordable experiential learning programs. API’s extensive pre-departure preparation, coupled with strong support services on-site, facilitates academic, cultural and linguistic learning. Within the supportive environment of the API programs, API participants are encouraged to explore their host communities and become increasingly independent and confident in their own abilities. API strives to make international educational experiences accessible to as many participants as possible, and, as such, works to provide multiple program components at a low program cost.
