ENROLLMENT POLICIES

The Graduate School has specific policies in place that deal with enrollment issues related to graduate students and their curriculum.

Continuous enrollment – A student must enroll each semester following admission to a degree program to be considered an active student. If there is a break in enrollment, a student must complete the application process for readmission. A semester in which a student is enrolled for course credit is counted as continuous enrollment. Any course a student is enrolled in goes on the student’s transcript.